Difficulty rating of production (easy/intermediate/ complex)	Intermediate
Recommended CEFR level	A1+
Technical details	The elements of this video can be created easily in class and then edited together using PowerPoint or a video editing tool. The opening sequence of this example uses a reversed clip of a person tearing up the heading Define Love which is then edited together with the other clips of students with their written signs. An audio backtrack contributes to the mood of the theme and unifies the final video.
Suggestions (preparation/pre and post activities)	The activity is very open and can be targeting words, phrases or sentences. It can be adapted for learners at all levels: A1 / A2 learners can focus on isolated words and simple phrases, B1 / B2 learners can focus on more sophisticated words or phrases, and C1 / C2 learners can focus on more complex, creative expressions (including poems). In class, a shared google document could provide a working space to collect definitions and ideas, or use post-it notes for a brainstorming session. Students can work individually or in groups to take pictures and video record their contributions. There is then an opportunity to discuss and agree on the editing. More advanced students could be given several words to define in an audio recording or in writing for homework which are then recorded together creating a video to provide the key vocabulary for a topic. Useful for revision later on.

Ideas for application in different contexts	This can be a very simple language activity or become much more complex depending on how you choose to implement it.
